NOTE: The familiar stranger, English Literature Anthology for Junior secondary school in Malawi, also contains short stories and plays but I have restricted this guide to poems only for two simple reasons; the current JCE syllabus has a special book that contains short stories and in the current MSCE Syllabus, MANEB will write the whole short story and poem from either the prescribed books or any other sources and examine students on them. Such being the case, the students are required to master the skills on how to analyze a short story or a poem rather than studying all the poems and stories in a book.

Acknowledgements

I am very grateful to the Almighty God for making it possible for me to undertake this project. To God be glory for ever and ever more! Special thanks should go to my family; my wife and my children. I thank them for being so kind, lovely and for not disturbing me when I was busy producing this manuscript.

SECTION ONE

INTRODUCTION TO LITERATURE

Literature defined

- Literature is a work of creative art that is produced by a writer or a narrator.
- Literature is also defined as the study of creative and imaginative works or writings.
- Literature can also be defined as any piece of information that is written down or passed on by a word of mouth and is valued as work of art. The work of the art can either be written or oral.

The importance of studying literature

- ❖ It widens the cultural horizon.
- ❖ It evokes critical thinking in the minds of students and enables the knowledge of the good
- ❖ thoughts and arguments about issues and ideas.
- ❖ It increases self-awareness by comparing the self with the characters in books.
- ❖ It helps in comparing societies to know the virtues and limitations of inherited attitudes and values.

GENRES OF LITERATURE

Literature is divided into forms or types known as genres, as such a genre is a major category or type of writing style or format. For easy understanding, we are going to divide the genres into two main categories and these are; written and oral genres of literature.

and bad, right or wrong, wise or silly, moral or immoral.

- ❖ It brings joy and humour.
- ❖ It is educative and makes students broad minded.
- ❖ It sharpens the skill of essay writing which is important in many academic subjects.
- ❖ It is a spring board for the creative writing of poems/songs and stories.
- ❖ It enhances the skill of reading and speaking English.
- ❖ It enriches the vocabulary of the students and improves their passive knowledge of English.
- ❖ It informs about other people's philosophies, beliefs and attitudes.
- ❖ It enhances constructive

Genres of Oral literature

Oral literature refers to that form of literature that is passed one from one generation the next by the word of mouth. There are several genres of oral literature and most of them are in the form of Oral narratives. Oral narratives are stories that are told in order to teach morals and other positive values. Oral narrative is dived into the following forms;

- Myths; these are stories that explain and describe the origins of a community. They also seek to explain the mystery of creation and supernatural forces around the people.

Study guide for Junior Secondary Literature in English by J.L. Mwakawanga (BED, T2)

- Legends; A legend is an account of a hero or heroine in a community.eg the Mbona legend. It also explains important and memorable events or occurrences in a community.
- Ogre and Monster stories-These stories feature ogres or monsters with frightening attributes. They are half human monsters that portray evil and sometimes death. Ogres have superhuman powers and abilities. These stories are told to children to discourage them from engaging in anti-social or dangerous behaviors.
- Trickster's stories- These stories give an account of how one character, usually an animal, tricks another as to benefit from their loss.eg Kalulu and Fisi stories in which Kalulu is always a tricker.
- Riddles and proverbs- Riddles are short, witty sayings used to encourage critical thinking. Proverbs are very similar to riddles but they are much more widely used. They also contain community wisdom. Proverbs are popular with adults while riddles are popular with children.
- Songs/dances/ poems- These are generally performed to an audience. Their main purpose is to entertain. They are also used to pass messages, warn or to educate people

- Animal stories also called fables-These are narratives that contain animal characters but have strong lessons.

Written genres of literature

There are four major types of written genres of literature and these are; the novel, the short story, the play and poetry. These genres will be explained in detail in the following chapters.

Genres of junior secondary literature

The syllabus of literature at junior secondary school level covers the following categories and books:

1. Play: The play of Little soldier by Bernard Ashley
2. Novel: The Tale of Tamari by Shimmer Chinodya
3. Poetry: The Familiar stranger By Hudson Chamasowa
4. Short story: Stories from Africa by Madhu Bhinda.

ELEMENTS OF LITERATURE

The following is a list of common elements of literature that we will be referring to throughout the guide.

1. Character:

A character is a person taking part in a story or play. These characters can also be animals or non-living things.

Types Characters

- ✓ Major character:-This is a character that plays a great role in the story or play. The whole story is centered on him/her and she/he is the one who moves it forward. This major character is also known as the protagonist, the dynamic character, the main character, or the hero/heroine.
- ✓ b) Minor Character:-This is the character who works together with the major character in moving the story forward. The minor character is also known as the antagonist, static character, subordinate character, flat character or supporting character.
- ✓ NB. The word character as an element in literature also means the behavior of a person in a story. This character or characteristic of a person is usually given in adjective form e.g. cruel, kind, good, bad, superstitious, pious, faithful, hardworking, lazy, promiscuous, courageous, proud, selfish and helpful.

2. Setting:

This is the location of a story in time and place. It exposes the time, geography, environment or political situation implied in the story.

Aspects of setting

- Place- it is the geographical location e.g. urban or rural area.
- Times- when is the story or play taking place; it can be a historical period, time of the day, season or month of the year.
- Weather condition- is it rainy, sunny, cloudy,
- Social condition,- the daily life of the people e.g. slavery, oppression, war, etc
- Mood or atmosphere- the feeling created at the beginning of story e.g. cheerful, dark or frightening.

4. Theme:

This is the main message or lesson (idea) contained in the whole piece of writing. It is the whole purpose of the literary work as intended by the writer. However, themes are not easily seen or observed in the literary works, especially in poetry, and readers can find them only after understanding the writing:

5. Plot:

Plot is a planned, logical series of related events taking place in a story having beginning, middle and end. Plot can as well be regarded as the summary of the whole story or play.

It can either be regular or irregular. A regular plot moves directly forward from the beginning of the story, to its highest point then to the end while an irregular plot can have a lot of flashbacks or flash forwards and foreshadows.

Elements of a plot

- Exposition/introduction: This is where the revelation of the characters and setting is done.
- Rising action-this is where the events in the story become complicated and the conflict is revealed.
- Climax: This is the highest point of the story. It is the focal point to which the story has been moving and this is the most interesting and enjoyable part of the story.
- Falling action- It shows the writer's deliberately reduction of the tempo of the story and preparedness to conclude it. The conflict began to be resolved.
- Resolution: This is the point in the story where the conflict is put to an end.

6. Point of view:

This is the angle from which a story is narrated (told)

There are three main ways of telling a story as follows;

- First person point of view:-This narrator is limited because he/she explains only what he/she sees, hears, experience or observes and cannot know anything happening on the other side. This narrator uses the first person pronouns (I or we)

- Third person point of view:-This narrator is omniscient (all knowing) because he/she is not involved in the story as such he/she can explain something which the people in the story (characters) do not know. This is the advantage of this narrator over the first person narrator. This narrator uses the third person pronouns [he, she, it, they)
- The second person point of view is not commonly used in many forms of literature except some poems and epistolary works (writings in form of letters). The second person narrator uses the second person pronouns-‘you’ for both singular and plural.

7. Conflict:

This is the main issue at hand which is like a struggle brought forward to be acted upon in the story.

8. Alliteration:

This is the use of the same words or the words that have the same sounds at the beginning of a sentence. e.g. She sells sea shells by the sea here.

Types of alliteration

- ❖ Consonance: This is the repeated use of words that have the same consonants to produce half rhymes.eg blood/blade, flash/flesh, slip/slap/, /slit/slot.

- ❖ Assonance: This is the repeated use of words that have the same vowels or the same vowel sounds Examples: old/okay, answer/another, in/ink, up/at.

9. Imagery:

This is the use of words or expressions that produce a clear picture of something in the mind of the one reading or hearing them.

10. Tone:

This is a voice expression in a poem. It expresses the speaker's feelings or thoughts. The tone can be hostile, friendly, sarcastic, playful, mournful, light, satirical, sympathetic, ironic, humorous, light, somber, or joyful.

11. Mood:

This the emotional content of a poem or story as intended by the author or poet. It is described in terms of feelings such as hostile, friendly, sarcastic, playful, mournful, light, sympathetic, humorous, light, somber, joyful or gloomy

12. Soliloquy:

This is when a person talks to himself/herself. This style is mostly used in drama (plays) where a character may speak loudly to himself/herself in order to let the audience know his/her inner feelings which he/she does not want to share with the other characters.

13. Satire/Parody:

This is a clever way of mocking a person or a system in order to expose the weaknesses.

It uses humor and wit to attack and expose these features for humorous effect. It may change or exaggerate other facts or features to enhance the humorous effect.

14. Hyperbole:

This is a deliberate exaggeration intended at intensifying an emotional force. eg - My father has all the money, -His hands are full of blood.

15. Allusion

This is a direct reference to a name or event in history or in literature in order to enrich the meaning of the poem or passage being read.

eg -We do not need any Judas in this class (traitor)

-James is the John Chilembwe of our school (freedom fighter)

16. Simile:

It is a brief and direct comparison of two things or ideas using like' or 'as'. eg : -John is as strong as a lion; Her beauty is like that of a star.

17. Metaphor:

This is a group of words that explicitly compare two terms that are not similar in order to give a specific meaning without using 'like' or 'as'. eg
- He is the lion of the village; She is the star of the school.

18. Irony:

This is the use of words in a sense which is very different from their usual meanings. It is a contrast between what appears to be true and what is really true.

Types of irony

- ❖ Verbal irony: This involves a contrast between what is said or written and what is really meant. .E.g. All offenders will receive the headmaster's ice cream (punishment)
- ❖ ii. Situational irony: This is when what happens is very different from what is expected to happen.
- ❖ iii. Dramatic irony-This occurs when the audience or reader knows something which a character does not know.

19. Personification:

This is a special kind of metaphor which refers to inanimate or abstract things as if they are humans. The personified things are given human identity (form) and are called by personal pronouns.

Eg: -Mother earth has dressed her children.

20. Paradox:

This is a statement or a fact which seems to be absurd (funny) because it is contrary to the normal. A paradox can also contain two opposite facts or two characteristics that contradict each other.

Eg -Hoes wearing out not because of farming but digging graves.

21. Foreshadow:

This is the use of clues or hints that suggest the events that will happen later in the story in order to raise a dramatic tension by giving warning about the events to come.

22: Flashback:

This is the recalling or reliving events in the past when telling a story by narrating what happened at an earlier time. It interrupts the action of the plot before returning to it to continue with it. Flash back is important in the following ways;

- It gives the background of the present action.
- It summarizes the plot.
- It fills any created gap.
- It shortens the series.
- It can be the means of telling the whole story or poem.

23. Denotation:

This is the literal use of words. It is the use of words according to their actual dictionary definition. The words are used in simple, plain and direct manner in order to give ordinary everyday meanings.

24. Connotation:

This is the figurative use of words. It is the use of a word to give a deeper or hidden meaning. It can stretch a word to accommodate a larger or a very different meaning. It uses different figures of speech like metaphors, idioms and irony.

26. Suspense:

This is a type of writing which raises a feeling of curiosity, uncertainty or even dread about what may happen next. The level of suspense in a story is usually increased by clues (foreshadows) of what may happen next.

d) They help to hold a particular portion together

NB- The above elements, are not the only elements of literature in use. There are many elements of literature, you can search for them from different sources and update your list.

SECTION TWO

PLAY: THE PLAY OF THE LITTLE SOLDIER by Bernard Ashley

What is a play?

A play is story that is performed by actors and actresses in front of an audience mainly through words and actions of the characters.

It can also be defined as a story that is written for actors to perform or act in a theatre.

A written play is called a script

A person who writes plays is known as playwright.

Types of Plays

- 1) Comedy-It is a play that starts with humour and ends with humour.
- 2) Tragedy-It is a play that ends on a sad note due to the death of at least one of the main characters.
- 3) Tragi-comedy- It's the combination of both humour and sadness. It may start with humour and ends with death of at least on actor

Features of a play

- ✓ A play is written to be performed in front of an audience
- ✓ A play is written in form a dialogue

- ✓ The names or titles of the characters in a play are written in the margin of the paper on the left and the speech follows on the right
- ✓ A play is divided into Acts and scenes. Act is the major division while scene is a minor segment within an Act.

Elements of play

Most elements of a play have been discussed in the first part of this guide. Some of them are briefly discussed below

1. Plot.

This is the trend or series of related events taking place in the play. In other words it is the summary of the whole play.

It is in the plot where a conflict is formulated, concluded and resolved. For example the play of 'little soldier' centers on the following conflicts;

- ❖ The conflict between the Kibu and the Yusu tribe in Africa which results in the death of Kaninda's parents and a sister.
- ❖ The conflict between Barriers Crew gang and the Federation gang over the control of the streets which is heightened when Dolly is hit by a car.
- ❖ The conflict between Kaninda Burumba of Kibu tribe and Faustine Ngesi of Yusu tribe when they meet in London.

2. Character

A character is a person taking part in a story or play. These characters can also be animals or non-living things. As seen in the first part of this guide, a character can be categorized as major versus minor, protagonist/ antagonist etc.

The list of Characters in the play little soldier is listed at the beginning of the play.

3, Setting

This is the location of a story in time and place. The play of the little soldier takes place in; streets, airport, homes, river Thames reach and in homes in London, and in Africa-Lasai.

4. Themes

This is the main message or lesson (idea) contained in the whole piece of writing.

5, Act and scene

Act is the major division of a play similar to a chapter in a book. A scene is a minor segment within an Act. A scene usually indicates a specific location or time and changes if another location or time is supposed to be presented. The play of the little soldier is divided into 2 acts each having 20 scenes.

6: Flashback:

This is the recalling of the past when telling a story by narrating what happened at an earlier time. Flash back is critical to note in the play little soldier. In the play Sergeant Matu appears to Kaninda in several flashbacks.

SUMMARY OF THE PLAY

Kaninda is a 13 years old boy who comes from Lasai Africa. The country is torn by a violent civil war between two tribes; the Yusulu and the Kibu. Kaninda's family belongs to the Kibu tribe. The play begins with the murder of Kaninda's parents and a sister at the hands of Yusulu Militia. Kaninda is left as an orphan at the age of 13.

Kaninda is taken to London by the Rose family. Peter and Betty Rose belong to God's Force, an organization like the Salvation Army. Their daughter is Laura who is more interested in her relationship with Theo. Theo is a member of the Barriers Crew, one of the two gangs (the other is the Federation) fighting each other over the control of the streets on the Thames barrier estate.

Theo and Laura drive a stolen car into Federation territory. Laura is at the wheel when a young girl Dolly is knocked down and she is rushed to the hospital in a comma. Since Dolly lives in the part of the estate controlled by the Federation, their gang leader, 16 years old Queen Max, vows to revenge against the Crew. Dolly is a younger sister to Queen Max. Both gangs prepare for a showdown in the millennium shopping Centre

The showdown duly takes place. It is horrifying event, the two rival gangs mirroring the brutality of the Yusulu and the Kibu tribes in Africa. The fighting is halted by Betty Rose.

Kaninda whose only wish is to return to Africa, escapes the house of the Rose and plans to stow away on ship bound for Mozambique. But first he needs to murder Faustin Ngesi a boy from Yusulu tribe. He confronts him in a dockland café. There, Faustin surprises Kaninda by showing no hostility or resistance. Instead, he expresses his view that warfare, either tribal or gangland, solves nothing. He makes Kaninda realize that back in Africa, he was simply being used as youthful assassin (little soldier) by Kibu rebels who cared nothing for him as a person.

The play ends with Kaninda making peace with Faustin. At last, he wrenches his thought away from Africa. He has found a new understanding and a new home.

Study guide for Junior Secondary Literature in English by J.L. Mwakawanga (BED, T2)

class laughs at her, and a fat boy jabs at her back with a ruler. The class monitor Clever wants to write her name but Tamari looks at Clever with eyes that plead for mercy, such that Clever does not write her name. Tamari is in standard 7A.

During break time she goes to meet her friend Linda who is standard in standard 7B. They went to a tuck shop and buy some buns and freezes. Tamari remembers that when her mum dies, Linda and her mother support her; they give her company and sleep with her at night.

Tamari knocks off from school at 3 O'clock PM and immediately rushes home to do domestic chores. Tamari's home has four rooms. She and her brother, Kuda who is 13 years old live in the living room. The living room has the following items; two sofas, a box size radio, paraffin stove, pots and dishes, two or three blankets, damp blankets and the room smell paraffin.

The other rooms of the house are occupied by three lodgers as follows;

- ❖ Mkoma Mandla, lives in the small kitchen. He has only started working. He usually passes through the living room when going to his room.
- ❖ Sis Maposa, she is a woman who travels to neighboring countries selling clothes. She is away most of the times.

- ❖ Mdala Zuze, he occupies the spare bedroom. He is always drunk. He comes home in the morning shouting and cursing.

Most of the furniture of the house was taken by Uncle Banda a brother to the late Tamari's father. Uncle Banda works at the mine; he is married and has a daughter by the name of Fatima. Uncle Banda wants Tamari and Kuda to be staying with him at the mine such that the house has to be let out to the lodgers.

Tamari is a very busy girl because after doing all the domestic chores, she runs a grocery that contains; eggs, cigarettes, fruits and vegetables. Tamari is at her stall and her friend Linda comes to buy some tomatoes. Tamari requests her friend to look after the stall as she goes to prepare supper. Kuda comes in and complains of eating the same type of food daily i.e. sadza with spinach. Kuda takes over the cooking while Tamari returns to the stall.

Just before they eat, Mkoma Mandla brings some meat which they eat together. Just when they had finished eating Old Zuze comes in late while the meat had been finished. Old Zuze prepares his own food.

During the night Tamari dreams about her mother. In the dreams the mother looks healthier and happier than when she died. The mother is holding flowers with bright colors. Tamari wants to paint the flowers but as she starts to paint, she is awakened by banging on the widow by Mdala Zuze who has just returned from the beer.

- Friendship and love affair –In most African schools, there are rumors and gossip about marital affairs among boys and girls due to failure to differentiate friendship from love affairs.

CHAPTER 12

Setting- Tamari's home, police station, courtroom, prison.

Summary-The Tamari's home has been attacked by thugs. The attack happens just before midnight. The attack happens as follows, firstly there is a big bang at the door hopefully to awake the dwellers of the house. Secondly the thugs smash the window using a brick which lands near Kuda' head. After that the thugs insert a horse pipe through the crushed window and spreads water everywhere in the house. A burning match is thrown through the window. Then a warning voice is heard outside saying 'next it will be paraffin'

Aunt Loneness asks who the thugs are, and a voice is simply heard saying that they know what to do probably to leave the house. Due to the commotion, everybody wakes up and they all assemble at the sitting room. They inform the police who arrived three hours later.

The police arrive late because most staff had gone to man road blocks in anticipation of mass action to protest against rising food and fuel costs. The police also had only one car. The police ask of who is the suspect to whom Mdale Zuze replies that they think Uncle Banda is the one who has hired the thugs.

Uncle Banda has been arrested and he is now at the police station. At the police station, Uncle Banda has a lot that is going on in his mind.

- ❖ He thinks of how the police had traced the incident to him.
- ❖ Why he hired thugs and paid them before the dust settled
- ❖ Regrets why he had been busy with his brother's house instead of keeping his job at the mine
- ❖ The loss of his job when his bosses hear about this
- ❖ What his wife says upon hearing this news
- ❖ What if they lock him up

After the police interrogations, Uncle Banda is taken to the magistrate court. At the court, Uncle Banda is charged of three different accounts namely; illegal sale of property, abusing the rights of minors and lastly threatening and harassing people. Aunt Loveness tries to plead to with the magistrate to let Uncle Banda free, if he promises to be good to the children and return the money he has taken from Matope. However the magistrate replies that if Uncle Banda returns the money, his sentence will only be reduced. Uncle Banda is imprisoned.

After some few months, Tamari, Aunt Loveness and Aunt Banda visit Uncle Banda at the prison. Uncle Banda looks haggard, his eyes have a distant look, his cheeks are hallowed and his hands are bony. They talk to him through a glass pan using a microphone. MSCE Syllabus does examine candidates on short stories and poems from different sources. Such being the case a student is required to master the skills on how to analyze a short story or a poem and not studying all the poems and stories in a book. And for this reason this guide will only look at few poems in 'The familiar stranger'

INTRODUCTION TO POETRY

A poem is a written expression of emotions or ideas arrangement of verse/words most often rhythmically

A poem can also be defined as imaginative piece of writing that has rhythmic or musical lines. A collection of poems is known as poetry.

A person who writes poems is called a poet.

Forms poetry

- ❖ Acrostic poetry- Acrostic poetry is where the first letter of each line spells a word usually using the same words as the title.
- ❖ Epic- This is a long narrative poem celebrating the adventures and achievements of hero. Epics deal with traditions myths or history of a nation
- ❖ Fable-A fable is a poetic story composed in verse or prose with a moral summed up at the end usually using animals as characters to teach valuable lessons

SECTION FOUR;

POETRY; THE FAMILIAR STRANGER

By Hudson Chamasowa

Note: The familiar stranger, English Literature Anthology for Junior secondary school in Malawi also contains short stories and plays but I have restricted this guide to poems only for one simple reason: the current JCE has a special book that contains short stories and

- ❖ Free Verse-An irregular form of poetry in which the content is free of traditional rules of versification
- ❖ Monody-A poem in which one person laments another's death
- ❖ Ode- A poem praising and glorifying a person, place or a thing.

ELEMENTS OF POETRY

Before a reader starts analyzing any piece of poetry, he or she must understand literary terms associated with poetry. Most of literary terms have been explained in section one some of them are;

A line in a poem is a collection of words running horizontally in a single line. In Some poems, the whole line can be filled by just a single word. In that context, that single word becomes a line.

Stanza-A stanza is a group of lines. Stanza is to poetry as paragraph is to prose (composition). Although it is common for a poem to be one stanza-long, most Poems are divided into sections (parts). Each of these sections in a poem is called a stanza.

Persona- A person or objects speaking in a poem.

Symbol- An object, an action, or an idea that stands for something other than itself. For Example a dove is a symbol of peace.

Hyperbole: -This is a deliberate exaggeration intended at intensifying an emotional force. eg - My father has all the money, -His hands are full of blood.

Allusion-This is a direct reference to a name or event in history or in literature in order to enrich the meaning of the poem or passage being read. eg -We do not need any Judas in this class (traitor)
-James is the John Chilembwe of our school (freedom fighter)

Simile:-It is a brief and direct comparison of two things or ideas using 'like' or 'as'. eg : -John is as strong as a lion; Her beauty is like that of a star.

Metaphor:-This is a group of words that explicitly compare two terms that are not similar in order to give a specific meaning without using 'like' or 'as'. eg - He is the lion of the village; She is the star of the school

Imagery-It is the use of symbols or similes or metaphor to help create pictures in the reader's mind. Imagery appeals to the reader's senses of sight, smell, touch, Taste and hearing.

Rhyme(s)- Words that have the same sound(mostly)at the end of each line. The last word In the first line may rhyme with the last word in the second line. Sometimes the Last word in the first line may rhyme with the last word in the third line.

Alliteration- This is the repetition of comsonant sound at the beginning of words.

Theme:

This is the main message or lesson (idea) contained in the whole piece of writing. It is the whole purpose of the literary work as intended by the writer.

KEY TO THE STUDY OF POETRY

When you are studying any poem consider the following

- ❖ Gasp the message in poem by reading the poem more than once. Understand the meaning of the poem ie both denotative and connotative meanings
- ❖ Analyze literary term which may include the persona, plot, themes, setting, characters and the addressee.
- ❖ Analyze the literary devices ie appreciate the use of language in the poem.

ANALYSIS OF SOME FEW POEMS FROM THE FAMILIAR STRANGER

1,TELL NO ONE

By Temwani Mgunda

a, Message -The poem has only two stanzas and it is talking about a young girl who is often defiled by her uncle. The girl child becomes the wife in the home and the promised future gets shattered. The title itself speaks out loud and clear 'Tell no one' what I do to you! And because the girl is voice less she decides to endure.

The first stanza clear shows that the girl is fed up and tired of being defiled by the uncle. The little girl now gathered courage to reveal the abuse she has suffered at the hands of this uncle so that this defilement should stop, she tells the wife to his uncle of tribulations ie problems she is facing.

b, Analyzing Literary Terms

1, plot

- Causes- Cruelty, heartlessness, the uncle demonstrates that he does not care for the future of the girl.
- Effects-
 1. The girl becomes affected physically (Frail and fragile) and psychologically

2. The girl endures pain all the time she is defiled.
3. Enmity between the Aunt and the Uncle, since this has been revealed

2, Character

- ❖ The Uncle- cruel, heartless, senseless, abusive, careless
- ❖ The little girl- Enduring , persevering(for not revealing in the first place), Emotional- shown by the statement brutal beats and heartless swine)
- ❖ The Aunt, Insensitive- for not being inquisitive about the little girl's moods.

3, Themes – Cruelty, heartlessness, infidelity, adultery, defilement, perseverance, endurance, insensitive

4 Setting- not clear it can happen any where

5 Persona The little girl telling her Aunt

6, Addressee- the Aunt being told the news.

C, Analyzing Literary devices

Metaphors

- Heartless swine
- Brutal beast

Hyperbole

- Throws himself on me
- Fragile

Imagery-

- Rutted road to Golgotha
- Have carried the cross.

2,ZOMBA BOTANICAL GARDENS

By Temwani Mgunda

a, message- A botanic garden is a garden which is usually open to the public where wide range of plants are grown for scientific study and educational purposes. The persona in the poem is admiring the beauty of this garden grown with different plants and flowers. The garden is located at the foot of or below Zomba plateau and this makes it a beauty to watch with the plateau in the background.

The persona compares the green vegetation to 'green carpet' with flowers here and there. There are also some rocks that jutting out of the green carpets and compares these to battalion of soldiers 'standing guard'

The persona exaggerates the beauty of the garden by saying that Adam and Eve must have walked and played here before falling from grace to grass. This only shows that Zomba Botanic garden is beautiful.

b, Analysis of literary terms

Plot- Not clear

Setting- Bottom of Zomba Mountain, Zomba city

Theme- Beauty

Persona –Can be any person who visits the garden

Addressee- not clear

c, Analysis of Literary devices

Metaphors

- Beaming delighted-the beauty of the garden is compared to beaming light hence a metaphor
- Full of life-green vegetation is compared to life
- Manicured green carpets
- Battalion of rocks standing guard

- Full of life-
- Birds ceaselessly chanting lullabies

3,SONG OF A WOMAN

By Temwani Mgunda

a, Message- The poem exposes gender based violence against women whose right are violated by the males in society. Her freedom of expression is suppressed and she does not have a voice in the society. She is regarded as less important in decision making, property of the widow is grabbed by the relatives of the male and only men are regarded as breadwinners; daughters rights to education is suppressed as parents only send male children to school while the female children are at home hewing wood and fetching water, their liberty is suppressed by the society.

The poem exposes the injustices women go through in society with the hope of influencing a change in the societal mindset in the way people view women.

b, Analysis of literary terms

Persona-Woman

Addressee- Society and men to whom the woman is appealing

Themes- Oppression, exploitation, selfishness, cruelty

OUR FAULT

By Dave Namusanya

a, Message- This poem tackles the plunder of our natural resources and the suffering that comes with it. We have wantonly cut down trees for charcoal and our mountains are bare and rivers dry. The poem explains that rains do come; rain clouds gather, but the wind quickly disperses them. The sun's heat bakes the soil and makes it dry. When the rains come, then in floods, we hear of rivers bursting and lives getting lost

As a solution, people rush to the mountain to offer sacrifice to appease the angry gods. This was an old belief that when a disaster of this nature befell the society, they rushed to the mountains to appease them and 'plea for mercy and forgiveness.

SHORT STORIES: SHORT STORIES FROM AFRICA BY MADHU BHINDA

Introduction to a short story

Study guide for Junior Secondary Literature in English by J.L. Mwakawanga (BED, T2)

A short story is a story with fully developed theme but is shorter than a novel.

We can also define a short story as an invented story shorter than a novel with few characters and deals with more with feelings than events.

The person who writes stories is called an author. Different authors tell stories using different ways; they use a voice that we call a narrator in a short story or a novel. A short story can be fiction or factual.

Features of a story

The following are the features of a short story.

- ❖ A short story usually talks about one single event or experience
- ❖ A short story usually is between 500-1500 words in length. Hence it can be read in one sitting
- ❖ A short story has a beginning middle and an end
- ❖ A short story has few characters.

Elements of a short story

The elements of a short story are the same as that of other genres of literature which include; setting, characters, characterization, point of view, plot and themes. All these elements have been explained in chapter one.

Key to the study of a short story

When analyzing a short story, consider the following

- Understand the story by asking yourself the questions what is the story all about? This is important because you cannot analyze a short story if you don't understand it.
- The second step involves analyzing literary terms. Just as we did with poetry consider plot, setting, themes characters and narrator (point of view)
- The third and the last step is to analyze literary devices. Appreciate the use of language by the author.

STORY BY STORY ANALYSIS

1, THE LATE BUD

by Ama Ata Aidoo (Ghana)

Characters, Yaaba, Nsia, Panyin, Maami, Antobam, Karka, Paapa, Adwoa, Villagers.

Setting; the story takes place in a rural village

Gis- A young girl tries to please her mother by preparing to run important errand. However, it's too late as the girl is gravely injured in the process.

Summary- Yaaba plays all day instead of running errand for her mother. Unlike Yaaba, his siblings, Nsia, Antobam, Naabanyin, Adwowa and Tawia run the errand for the mother. As a result Yaaba cannot eat the food in peace and is often beaten by her mother.

Apart from the fact that Yaaba is not given the food, she feels pain because every time Maami calls Adwowa, she refers to her as 'my child Adwowa' while she only refers to Yaaba merely as Yaaba. However, Yaaba cannot ask anybody about this as it is against the tradition, 'you cannot ask who your parents are.' This is evidenced by the stiff-talking and weeping that occurred when Antobam asked her grandmother where her own mother was.

Finally Yaaba decides to please her mother by going to get red earth in the company of Karka and Panyin. But Yaaba decides to go there alone during the night before the day. She is heavily injured while inside the red earth pit. She stumbles as she searches for apampa and a hoe. She comes home during the same night and her arrival scares Maami who shouts 'thief! Thief! The shouting works up many people.

Medicine man is called and helps Yaaba to get better. People are not aware of the cause of the injury of Yaaba. It is coming of the twins Panyin and Karka that unveils the course of Yaaba's injury. Then Maami cries and calls Yaaba 'my child'.

Character analysis

9, NO WITCHCRAFT FOR SALE

By Dorris Lessing- Zimbabwe

Setting- The story occurs in rural

Characters- Mr and Mrs Farquar, Gideon, Scientist, Teddy and Picanin

Gist- A black servant heals a white boy using local herbs. In disbelief, a scientist came to get the wonder herbs from the servant but in vain

Summary-The family of Mr and Mrs Farquar have stayed for a long time without a child. But God has seen them and they been blessed with a baby boy, Teddy. Gideon is their black cook and he natively names Teddy, 'little yellow head'. Gideon likes Teddy and because of that the Farquars like him and raise his wage. In all aspects, Teddy is growing better than Picanin a black boy who is born at the same time him. This difference is also backed by a shared feeling among both blacks and white about blacks God bound servants and masters.

One day Teddy comes crying with the pain in his eye as a snake has spat full into the eyes. Gideon runs into the bush to get medicine while Mrs Farquar bathes Teddy with permanganate. When Mrs Farquar sees that her efforts have no effects and remembers seeing blind natives due to spitting of snake, she is terrified. As such, she eagerly and hopefully waits for Gideon's coming from the bush. Gideon comes from the bush with plant, strips its leaves, chew it vigorously and spits hard again and again in Teddy's eyes. Teddy is healed and the Farquars thank him again and again. They give Gideon presents and increase his wage.

The news of Teddy's healing spread like wild fire among the black and the white who cannot believe it. Consequently, a scientist come to the Farquars family and request Gideon to show them the root which cured Teddy. The scientist explains that the root will be used to make medicine to help all the people. Gideon feels betrayed and gives lame excuses concerning the root. After some persuasion, Gideon gives in. However he makes the Farquars and scientist walk some miles over the forest for nothing. When Gideon feels that his colleagues have had enough walk, he picks ordinary blue flowers and gives them to scientist. The scientist turn throws the flowers to the back of his car and departs for his lab.

Summary-The narrator of the story is a young boy who is explaining the effects of war against the bandits. He has lost his mother, father, house, food and oil. He can't do business as usual in fear for the attack from the bandits.

The narrator and his siblings are taken to stay at their grandmother's place where they also encounter the same problems. While there a decision is made to leave for a faraway place where there is no war. To reach the place they have to go through Kruger Park which is very dangerous. They are in a company of other people and a leader who has the knowledge of the route and destination. The leader instructs them on every activity. For example; they must use long way around the electric fence as touching it will mean death, they cannot make fire as smock can alert the police and wardens lastly they must stand still when they meet elephants

As they are on the journey, they live a very hard life just like animals. The narrator notices that his siblings are becoming weaker and thinner. They are tempted to go and beg for food from people who work in the white peoples camps. However they can't do that because if people help them they will lose their jobs.

When they meet lions they sleep tight to each other for protection. In places to cross rivers the grand father is lifted from stone to stone. Due to fatigue they leave their belongings behind. They eat wild fruits which results into stomach run. Later the grandfather goes missing and a search for him is fruitless. The leader advises the narrator and his relations to wait for the grandfather while the rest can move on. However the grandmother courageously decides to go with the rest.

They arrive at their destination which is a very big tent. The features of the tent are; it is bigger than a church, shelters more than 200 people, it is always dark inside and it keeps rain overheard but water comes in at the side. Upon arrival they are taken to a clinic to register and the grandmother signs for them. A sister gives them special powder to mix with water and drink. Another sister facilitates some medical checkup and vaccination to protect them from various sicknesses.

In the tent every family is given a place closed with sacks and cardboards. The grandmother manages to get a good place and makes grass mats for them. The narrator's brother is taken to the clinic every Monday. The sister says there is something wrong with the little brother head due to lack of food. Once a month, a food truck comes to the clinic and distributes food, and once a month the church leaves a pile of old clothes and they choose something from it.

The people in the surrounding village have let them join their school because they are one people with them. The narrator and his sibling' have settled gradually around the tent and they plant beans, and mealies and cabbage. The grandmother goes to some piece work to support her and the children. She manages to buy black school shoes and polish making the children comfortable.

Some white people come and take photographs of the people living in the tent. When the grandmother is asked to whether she hopes to go home when the war is over she responds 'there

14, THE RAIN COME

By Grace Ogot – Kenya

Setting- the story takes place in a village.

Characters; Lobong'o, Minya, Oganda, Ndithi, Osinda, Padho, and the Luo Community

Gist- The chief's daughter is chosen as a sacrifice to a rain god. By the help of her lover she escapes but rains still come.

Summary- The community of Luo has been hit by the problem of lack of rain fall. The chief, Labong'o, goes to a medicine man who tells him that that Padho, the ancestor of Luo, has chosen Oganda as sacrifice to the lake Monster so that it can rain. Oganda is the only chief's girl child who is born after a long time from a fifth wife. The chief is in dilemma because on one hand refusing to sacrifice Oganda would mean disobeying the ancestors and this will result in the death of all the members of Luo Community.

On the other hand sacrificing Oganda would mean permanently crippling Labongo's spiritually. He remembers his promise on the day of his enthronement. He promised that he would lay down his own life and that of his house hold if necessary to save the Luo tribe.

Such being the case, Labong'o has been left with no option but to sacrifice his daughter. He calls for a meeting of all his household members, except for Oganda, where he announces that Oganda has been chosen as a sacrifice for the rains, the house hold rejoices. Only Minya her mother does not rejoice but faints. Oganda thinks that the household is discussing about her marriage. She thinks of all her suitors and settles for Osinda as the best.

The chief takes away Oganda to her mother's hut and informs her that she is the ancestor's sacrificial choice. In the morning a big farewell feast is prepared but Oganada does not touch any food. The whole Luo tribe is rejoicing as it hold that it's a great honor to be selected to die so that the society may live. Ogada cannot understand her own people who are dancing yet they know that she is going to die. As these things are happening, Oganda expects Osinda, her suitor to appear. Then she realizes that she will never see Osinda as someone has told her that Osinda has gone on a private visit. In the afternoon, Oganda unbelievably bids fare well to her parents. Chief Labong'o put his bracelet on Oganda's waist and tells her that she will live forever among the Luo. And Oganda tells her mother to always look at the sunset whenever she misses her as she will be there.

Then Oganda departs taking a path lonely while singing. She is to walk through the forest all night. At midnight Oganda sleeps on a tree trunk because she is tired and cannot walk any more. In the morning she continues with her journey and reaches TONG a place separating the inhabited part of the country and the sacred place KRLEMO. Oganda passes through the sacred land and reaches the beach. She walks angle deep in the sand with her feeling that something is following her. She then runs as she is to arrive at the lake by sunset.

As she runs, she hears a voice from behind. Looking back she sees something like a moving bush following her. From the moving bush comes a strange creature. The strange creature catches up with Oganda, a strong hand catches her. She falls on the sand and faints. When Oganda gains consciousness she finds Osinda bending over her, telling her to escape. However Oganda refuses in fear of a curse and bad luck from the ancestors but Osinda insists. Together they both run from the sacred land avoiding the path that Oganda had followed. When they reach the barrier to the sacred land, the strange
